THE GREAT REVIVAL.

G. W. WILSON TURNS HIS ATTEN TION TO THE LAWYERS.

The Home Comes in for Its Share of Attention --- Dudes, Anarchists, and Hoodlums.

When the time arrived for Mr. Wilson's afternoon lecture a heavy mist of rain was falling and not more than seventy-five people were present, but after the service commenced people kept coming and it was not many minutes until the room was well filled. Mr. Wilson gave notice that he would lecture this afternoon, but he wanted the members to speak and tell if they were aware of any obstacles in their way to prevent their taking an active part in this meeting. He said he felt that he did not have the support of a very large proportion of the membership of the M. E. church and some had told him that they did not believe in the doctrine of sanctification which he had been preaching. He thought it remarkable that Methodists should not believe in sanctificawhen it was tion one the cardinal principles of primitive Methodism. Quite a number spoke and most of them seemed ready to engage earnestly in the work. Mr. Wilson said he did not come to teach philosophy or "muddy physics," but Christ. He thought if the church gets holiness that a great work could be done here in Wichita. He had no faith in their ability to convert a thousand sinners unless the church first received a great blessing. He said: "How can you preach to others what you have not got yourself?" He told the people there was no use to pray forever for a something. The way to do was to ask for what you wanted and then get it." Last night the house was well filled. Several ministers were present, Revs. Akin, Woods, Deihl Hodgson and Hoyt occupied places on the platform. The people seemed all to want to get near the altar, and before the back part of the house was near full chairs were placed in the aisles and in the open space around the altar. Some of the good brethren came in and removed their overcoats and seated themselves with great deliberation. They seemed to say by their actions if Mr. Wilson hits me tonight there will be trouble in camp.

When Mr. Wilson arose he first gave no tice that there would be no service today "How and then announced his text: truster of Waco township, was in the city long halt ye between two opinions? If the vesterday on business. Lord be God serve Him; if Baal, serve

He said: "There is a period in every man's life when he halts between two opinions. The great question of whether he will serve God or not is presented to his mind, then he is confronted with doubts A man will never reach the place in this probationary state when he will not at times halt in his opinions and doubt his ability to perform his whole duty. OLD SETTLERS ON THE GROUND HOG.

The fact of the ground hog not being able to see his shadow this year on the day of his annual exhibition, has brought many old settlers out to testify either for or against his hogship for truth and veracity. A considerable number of these old settlers claim that the ground hog as a weather prognosticator is perfectly unreliable. In fact, that he is a notorious and consummate liar. John Martin says that he has paid particular attention to this matter for many years in Kansas, and is satisfied in his own mind that the ground hog knows no more about the weather tyan a goose does about astronomy. Hank Hiserman says the ground hog is a mug-wump, and if you bet on him you will lose your money. Mayor Allen is in-clined to think the ground hog can be depended upon. He, however, did not want to be reported as expressing a positive opinion on the subject, but he thought when the ground hog predicted an early spring and plenty of crops in this valley he was pretty sure to hit the nail square on the head, because that very thing happened about eleven years out of The mayor would not hesitate to say that if the ground hog would predict an early spring and good crops for the Arkansas valley every year that his hogship would establish in time a great reputation for truth and veracity.

Johnny Herrig says what are you going to do with 1878 if you do not believe in the ground hog. He remembered distinctly that in that year we had just such a ground hog day as the one we have had this year and such crops he had never before seen He thought if we had such a crop this year, taking into consideration that there is so much more ground under cultivation now that we will be able to supply the whole He was willing to stand by the ground hog and stake his own reputation on the prediction that we will have an early spring and remarkably good crop year in this valley.

The history of 1878 inclined A. W. Oliver to pin his faith to the sausage (ground He remembered the crops that hog). year, and nothing like it had ever been seen in this or any other country, and, as for himself, he would state that in his candid opinion the ground hog did it.

MUSICAL AND ELOCUTIONARY.

Last night the Young People's Society of Plymouth Congregational church gave an entertainment, in which the chief features consisted in the following program: After music, Prof. E. M. Booth, of Chicago, was introduced to the audience and gave a reading, "John Burnes of Gettysburg," in which the professor showed a masterly control of both voice and manner of delivery. Next. Mr. A. L. Crawford gave the vocal solo, "The Shepherd's Lanent," and on an en core "the Violets and Cowslips." Misses Lillian Hamblin and Octavia Hobbs then rendered the beautiful duet, "The Angel," followed by a zither solo by Mr. L. Rainer, which was also well received by the audience. Mrs. J. H. Parker gave a vocal solo, "Willie" ship," which pleased everybody, and Mr. Will Bracken gave a bass solo, "Ques-

Prof. Booth then gave a selection from the "Merchant of Venice" (act third, scene first), in which he was enthusiastically applauded and en cored. The vocal solo, 'Forbidden Music," by Miss Hamblin, was exquisite, and when she was again brought you have resisted the spirit you will be upon the platform she sweetly saug, "O! still further from Jesus. I tell you tonight. Hush Thee, My Baby." Mrs. J. H. Parker and L. H. Stiles sang the duet, "Welcome several selections on the violin.

At this point in the program Mr. A. H. Clifford, who was director of affairs, said that in behalf of the Young People's Society and members of the church he ex-tended thanks to the audience for their kind attendance; also to those who had promoted the entertainment by their aid The exercises closed with a quartette 'Auld Lang Syne," by the Lotus Club composed of Messrs. Crawford, Cushman, Hull and Bracken.

THE COURTS.

DISTRICT COURT.

Two divorces were yesterday granted Kate B. Fitzman was legally separated from H. G. Fitzman upon the grounds of extreme cruelty and gross neglect of duty. Emma Buchannan was also divorced from A. H. Buchannan upon the grounds of abandonment.

The case of Frank Johnson vs. the Wichita & Western was on trial during the day. In the forenoon the jury were taken by Deputy Donnelly to view the scene of the accident. The attorneys for the defendants demurred to the evidence; their demurrer was sustained, but the plaintiff was allowed to introduce further evidence in support of his case.

The Memphis and Denver Town Com

pany moved their headquarters to Horace. This immense corporation controls all the towns on the line of the Denver and Mem-phis railroad company from McCracken to the state line. We are sorry to lose so many good and enterprising men, but they are all interested in Wichita and say they will be back. Mr. Holbrook, secretary Woodbury, treasurer, and Fuller, chief engineer, go to Horace to become citizens of that county, while our friend, J. D. Moffitt, president of the company, moves to but will retain his citizenship here. Mr. Moffitt has large coal interests attention this summer. He was recently pel." appointed on a committee to confer with large attendance, the hall being filled to Memphis and Denver Town Company have its utmost capacity. In the audience were under construction now a fine system of water works at Horace; also a $10,000 hotel and say when their friends come out to see them they will be able to entertain De them in first class style. Go in, boys: nothing succeeds like success. Judge John J. Shields and F. H. Morgan of Ashland Clark county, are in the city. coming in on the evening train yesterday. Being on a business mission they will probably remain in the city until Monday. They report fine rains the past two days and an encouraging outlook for the future of their county and section. Mr. Lephardt, the manager of the opera bouse at Anthony, who in company with a number of citizens, came up to witness the opening of the Crawford Grand, called yesterday. Mr. L. didn't seem much impressed with either the musical accounplishments of the troupe or with the operaselected for such an occasion. That's just the feeling and judgment of not a few What they lacked in real artists they tried to make up in numbers. As far, the scenery and costumes they were simply beggarly. We confess it a great dissapoint
